Ideas for Homebrewed Dark Eras

#1

Becuase its never too soon to start brainstorming more! Anyhow, I want to try to write up another Dark Era in a couple of months. Does anyone have ideas for Eras they would like to see (or eras they would like to write themselves)? Here are some initial thoughts:

- Changelings in Kim Il-Sung's North Korea
- Mongol Geist
- Etruscan Mummy/Vampire
- Hunter/Demon Cuban Revolution

well, I am currently working on my own First Temple Dark Era, which seems to be a full blown Crossover setting. I would also really like to see (excluding any Eras which were suggested during a Kickstarter) a Third Punic War for Demon/Mummy and the Bar Kokhba Revoult for Promethean/Hunter, and I also have a rough concept for Meiji Restoration Changeling and a mini-Era for the Well, I've been working on one for about a year and currently bothering my anthropology professor to find good sources to write the second half, so there's that. Still proud and determined about it, as my signature attests.

Congo aside, I might have some motivation to get on writing that Italian Unification Mummy/Hunter I mentioned sometimes. The Werewolf/Hunter North American Fur Trade is another one and, since I can't get enough Beast, I would be interested in writing a Birth of Psychoanalysis Beast Era almost as much as I am about my Congo Free State one

I still think Werewolf Vietnam War is a great idea.

Ideas I've previously tossed out: Meiji Werewolf, Mythic Greece Changeling/Beast, 1750s Canada Vampire, 1950s America Promethean, 1930s Shanghai everybody crossover. I have a friend who would give anything for Kowloon Walled City Vampire/Demon.

I still like the idea of Beast/Inferno in the Satanic Panic of the US (80s-90s): The Satanic Panic itself causing violent Heroes to crop up with alarming frequency and the Begotten being hunted, often purely incidentally, while the actual Demonic influences are in Wall Street, the megachurches and the halls of Washington, even using the panic as a cover to push people toward the very institutions they have taken control of.

There's also an idea I had of a post-WWII Hunter/Mage era that's kind of along the lines of Watchmen, with Mages (mostly Libertines and Arrows) and Hunters emulating the modi operandi of comic-book superheroes, but that might kind of step on the toes of Mage Noir.

Genius: the Transgression 2E is a thing that's being worked on.

I would be happy to co-write that, or at least act as a researcher for it. Be advised that Satan's silence, Satanic Panic: Pop-Cultural Paranoia in the 1980s and We believe the Children: a moral panic in the 1980s are mandatory reading for my coauthor. And The Geraldo special from during the panic is mandatory viewing for understanding the media's role in this, as is this 2020 special from the panic and this gem shows how wacky the churches could get with it.

And remember, the bit in the hunter corebook about the Cherion logo is inspired by a smear campaign Amway ran against Proctor and Gamble during the panic.

1950s Promethean would be awesome for so many reasons.

Deviant in Showa-era Japan, particularly between 1964 and 1970. (I thought I'd said this before, but it doesn't seem to have been on these forums.) Not sure which should be the other featured template, though.

Can probably think of more, but what my sleep deprived mind can think of:

-Golden Age of Hollywood:

- 1920s-40s: Vampire/Changeling
- McCarthy Red Scare in Hollywood: Beast/Promethean
- End of the Golden Age (1950s): Demon/Werewolf (working on this one right now)

-Reign of Khmer Rouge: Geist

-Miami Drug Wars: Werewolf/Hunter

Well if we're talking the 60's-70's in Japan, Shotaro Ishinomori, and Deviant, well you simply can't leave out this guy:

I didn't have him specifically in mind while I was making my post, but I've thought of him and his successors in this connection. (In fact, before we learned Deviant's official subtitle, I half-jokingly called it Deviant: The Kamen-Ridering.)

I must admit he, on the other hand, didn't occur to me but probably should've.

I actually thought of Beasts (albeit not specifically as kaiju), but without the rationale, they seemed too obvious. (The big fellow himself is, of course, an Anakim Nemesis.)

I'll second Werewolf Vietnam and Werewolf in the Belgian Congo a thousand times over. Both very interesting premises that would require a very deft touch. Ditto Red Scare Beast/Promethean and 80s Miami Hunter (As a matter of fact, I've built a pretty comprehensive setting for the latter, and I'm trying to get together a group to run it right now. I actually have half a mind to convert it into a proper fan supplement). I actually think most of the ideas on this thread are REALLY great, but those are the ones that most appeal to me personally.

I'd also add:
Demon in post-Soviet, early 90s Russia
Changeling in the Reconstruction South
Promethean in pre-WWII Munich (around the time of Kristallnacht)

and maybe:
Geist in Haiti during the rule of "Papa Doc"
Vampire and Geist in pre-revolution Cuba

Miami drug wars hunter/werewolf sounds good, and is in the same time period as malonkey and I's idea, so I like that.

And given Mcarthy's red scare as a preceding moral panic in the US, and the shared involvement of the media and government in the two panics, I also would recommend Satan's Silence for that one too, given that the first few chapters discuss the science of moral panics.

The Early 90s.

Basically the High Concept being a homage to the Original World of Darkness in its heyday as well as what would it be like if Chronicles of Darkness came out first.

Werewolf: The Beaver Wars?

I'm pondering New South Wales circa 1790, but unsure which game it might fit with.

Also the western areas of modern Germany during the Renaissance, when the printing press was invented. Maybe a Mage/Demon thing.

What is tolerance? It is the consequence of humanity. We are all formed of frailty and error; let us pardon reciprocally each other's folly. That is the first law of nature.
Voltaire, "Tolerance" (1764)
