Have you ever noticed how many kinds of demons are running around in Mage?

Not any more. The reason we call astral beings "Goetia" now is so the Mastigos aren't intimiately bound up with two entirely seperate types of monster, both of which they unaccountaly call "demons".

Oh, I also think that they have a proper name for the beings from Lower Depths instead of just "demons". The name eludes me.

EDIT: Ah, got it: Akathartoi.

Depending on the context of their experience and the visage of the Angel they met, "Servitor", "Taloi", and "Malakim" all seem like potential labels.

[A fantastically detailed answer]

Thanks, Dave! That was a far more detailed answer than I had hoped to get.

I asked this on the other familiar thread but I'm going to bring it up here. In hopes I can get an answer.
If you have your familiar claim somebody does it remain your familiar?
Mechanical it makes sense that you dox sence claim is a manifestation. But the metaphysic is the ephemeral entitie combines with the person's soul, so would this break the familiar bond?

Yes, it remains your familiar. Imo, it's actually not a combination of souls, it's more like Firestorm from the Flash.
