Notifications 5 Messages Second Chances
My Profile
My Recent Posts
User Settings
Log Out

ONYX PATH PUBLISHING™

Search

navbar_onyx_path Galleries

Onyx Path White Wolf Worlds Chronicles of Darkness Mummy: The Curse 2e Signature Settings

2e Signature Settings

SUBSCRIBED

POSTS LATEST ACTIVITY PHOTOS

Post Reply Search Page 2 of 3 Filter

atamajakki
Member

Join Date: Nov 2013
Posts: 5487

Share
Post

08-21-2017, 02:17 AM #16

Apologies for the double post, but I would be ecstatic for our Egyptian setting to actually be Alexandria. Everyone always jumps at the Ptolemaic and Roman history, but some really interesting stuff has happened there since; I ran a Mummy one-shot some years ago set during the Urabi Revolt, where the British bombarded the city from a naval blockade, and almost a century before Napoleon conquered it.

Remi. she/her. game designer.

1 Quote Flag

SNESferatu
Member

Join Date: Aug 2014
Posts: 75

Share
Post

08-21-2017, 03:36 AM #17

Turin is much better than Rome as a Mummy setting, if you want to get to Italy. Yes, Rome has the history, the right monuments (we have a very small cutie pyramid) but Turin has one of the biggest Egyptian Museum in the world. I think it's the second biggest after Cairo's. Also, Turin is considered a "magical city", full of eldritch sites, where esoteric architecture outlines two magical triangles, a "white magic" one and a "black magic" one. There are even guided tours about it! Sadly, I don't know that much about it, since I'm not from the north of the country.

Italian nuisance. English is my second language, so be patient!

My homebrew:
[VtR 2e] Light From a Dead Star: Rome
[WtF 2e] The Past Is Another Country: Rome

4

Quote Flag

reseru
Member

Join Date: Nov 2013
Posts: 1574

Share
Post

08-21-2017, 07:00 AM #18

Could we see Rome, and the clash between an indomitable theocracy and prehistoric Sybaris raising up death cults?

Quote Flag

08-21-2017, 07:17 AM #19

> Originally posted by reseru
> Could we see Rome, and the clash between an indomitable theocracy and prehistoric Sybaris raising up death cults?

SNESferatu
Member

Join Date: Aug 2014
Posts: 75

Share
Post

It could work, but you'd also have to add the conflict between the theocracy and the rising areligiosity between the populace, as atheism and agnosticism are getting traction in a country which hosts a theocratical power which in turn tries to (more or less, most often less) subtly control its host. I'm not an expert on Mummy, but can Arisen be influenced by that, and also influence their cults that way, using another religion (or the absence of religion) to control their cultists?

Frankly, I'd like to see more "true" Rome than just Vatican City and its tentacles.

Italian nuisance. English is my second language, so be patient!

My homebrew:
[VtR 2e] Light From a Dead Star: Rome
[WtF 2e] The Past Is Another Country: Rome

2 Quote Flag

08-21-2017, 07:29 AM #20

Cinder
Member

Join Date: Nov 2013
Posts: 1408

Share
Post

Turin was (partially) one of the reasons behind my pitch for a Hunter/Mummy Dark Era set during the unification of Italy I made for the Kickstarter. Long story short, the city was, not unlike Washington, influenced by a lot of the architectural ideas of the time. Symmetry, harmony and a hefty dose of symbolism . Plus Masonry. And the museum is a true wonder to visit, especially since the recent renewals.

Rome would be fine, for the usual reasons of being an old city filled with ruins and secrets, but using Turin would be more unexpected and probably a more fresh idea. Don't get me wrong, Rome is cool and I'm one of those who would be ok with an Ancient Rome Dark Era for each line, but for a modern setting Turin will definitely be more innovative.

Last edited by Cinder; 08-21-2017, 07:37 AM.

Cinder's Comprehensive Collection of Creations - Homebrew Hub

I write about Beast: The Primordial a lot

1 Quote Flag

08-21-2017, 07:47 AM #21

SNESferatu
Member

Join Date: Aug 2014
Posts: 75

Share
Post

*Originally posted by Cinder

Rome would be fine, for the usual reasons of being an old city filled with ruins and secrets, but using Turin would be more unexpected and probably a more fresh idea. Don't get me wrong, Rome is cool and I'm one of those who would be ok with an Ancient Rome Dark Era for each line, but for a modern setting Turin will definitely be more innovative.

As a Roman I completely agree. In addition, while Rome is obviously way older, Turin can still work as a city for the previous Sothic Turn and other arisings, since it was founded during Emperor Augustus's reign, but was already inhabited at the time of the Punic Wars. Maybe some Mummies were there with Hannibal during his attempted invasion? I mean, it could work.

Italian nuisance. English is my second language, so be patient!

My homebrew:
[VtR 2e] Light From a Dead Star: Rome
[WtF 2e] The Past Is Another Country: Rome

1

Quote Flag

LostLight
Member

Join Date: Nov 2013
Posts: 4531

Share
Post

08-21-2017, 11:08 AM #22

I would also like to suggest Jerusalem as a good candidate setting city- I mean, this city is old, full with complex architecture with religious meaning and has tons of relics buried under it. Plus, there are some very strange religious groups in there with cult-like practices, so an arisen may operate her own cult without rising too much suspicion. In my potential "Shadows of Israel" project, Jerusalem would have been the Arisen's signature city.

Check my STV content, Or My Homebrew

"And all our knowledge is, Ourselves to know"- An Essay on Man

I now blog in here

1

Quote Flag

Omegaphallic
Member

08-21-2017, 11:35 AM #23

*Originally posted by Arcanist

Toronto might make a good setting, especially since there's explicitly a Mesen-Nebu Guildmaster and signature character of that Guild living there.

EDIT: I would also suggest taking a peek at Winnipeg, since the city got hit hard by Egyptomania and the Spiritualism craze at the beginning of

Join Date: Feb 2014
Posts: 3435

Share
Post

the 20th Century. Also the Manitoba Legislative Building is probably one of the most Neithian Architecture-style buildings I can image. There are sphinxes on the roof inscribed with invocations to Re. There's a chamber designed to imitate the orbit of Polaris that is symbolically linked to the thirty-foot tall Golden Boy statue sitting atop the building representing the god Hermes. Of course, I'm biased. I live in Winnipeg, and the city has a very strong arts scene, especially literature and music, a very strong occult/neo-pagan scene. The entire place breathes of Gothic fiction tropes, is small enough that Small Town™ tropes are suitable, but is big enough that the impersonality of the cityscape is still an option.

Damn, I always thought Winnapegs thing was being cold and windy (Kidding), that actually sounds interesting and cool.

Quote Flag

nothri
Member

Join Date: Feb 2014
Posts: 485

Share
Post

08-22-2017, 09:23 AM #24

Paris gets my vote. Napoleon's invasion of Egypt was indirectly responsible for our modern knowledge and obsession with the old country (including the Rosetta stone translations) and he brought back many pieces of that ancient world back with him. In addition, you can find older connections as well- a temple of Isis from the Roman era, secret treasures brought back by the Templars from the Middle East, the alchemy of Nicolas Flamel...I could go on. And of course the suffering artist motif Paris is famous for fits right into the nature of the Lost Guild. And don't even try to tell me that secret meetings held by the Nomarchs inside the Louvre don't get you excited.

Quote Flag

SunlessNick
Member

Join Date: Nov 2013
Posts: 1214

Share
Post

09-04-2017, 05:24 PM #25

*Originally posted by atamajakki

Speaking in broad strokes, I'd want to see somewhere within the span of the Nameless Empire (to show what an old nome with old scars and secrets is like), somewhere very old and continuously inhabited in Europe (to play with history an enable flashbacks), somewhere on the cutting-edge of tech (so the Arisen can either be amazed or learn to play with the new of this Turn), and somewhere unexpected and culturally foreign.

In my head, that's... Cairo; London, Rome, or Istanbul; Silicon Valley or Seoul; and Hong Kong or Mexico City. That's a spread I'd be overjoyed to see. Possibly toss in Memphis, TN for a laugh.

That's a good breakdown, though I'm swayed by Second Chances's argument for Luxor over Cairo. Of the European options, London would be my least favourite choice - of the other two, Rome offers a city that's mostly about a single heritage and those claiming inheritance from it, Istanbul has had multiple civilisations ruling it and spans two continents - either is very suitable for Mummy, enough that both might be good. I like Seoul over Silicon Valley - it offers another cultural base as well as a technological vibe - though I assume we'll be getting Tokyo. Mexico City is great for a cultural base, and also pretty good for:

> *Originally posted by Cleverest of Things
> Finally, I wouldn't mind a setting with an incredibly rich cult setting, but only one Mummy, who is usually asleep. It'd be a good way to get players more excited about playing cultists, or a rotating pyramid. Plus, the eventual rising of the Mummy is a built in story hook.

... this great idea.

> *Originally posted by SNESferatu
> In addition, while Rome is obviously way older, Turin can still work as a city for the previous Sothic Turn and other arisings, since it was founded during Emperor Augustus's reign, but was already inhabited at the time of the Punic Wars. Maybe some Mummies were there with Hannibal during his attempted invasion? I mean, it could work.

I'm sold.

Ok; of the extant suggestions, I vote for: Luxor, Turin, Istanbul, Tokyo, Mexico City, and somewhere in Australia.

Other places that appeal to me: Addis Ababa (or somewhere else in Ethiopia), Merv (which I'd swap Istanbul for), Lima, and Tonga.

👍 1

Quote Flag

atamajakki
Member

Join Date: Nov 2013
Posts: 5487

Share
Post

09-04-2017, 05:37 PM #26

I wouldn't expect more Tokyo settings now that Hill is gone.

Remi. she/her. game designer.

👍 2

Quote Flag

09-05-2017, 12:20 PM #27

> *Originally posted by atamajakki
> I wouldn't expect more Tokyo settings now that Hill is gone.

That would be a shame.

I do think Changeling, Hunter, and Giest will have them as I believe they were written before the current rift.

Omegaphallic
Member

Join Date: Feb 2014
Posts: 3435

Quote Flag

09-05-2017, 12:26 PM #28

> Originally posted by Omegaphallic
>
> That would be a shame.
>
> I do think Changeling, Hunter, and Giest will have them as I believe they were written before the current rift.

I don't think Hunter and Geist are written.

atamajakki
Member

Join Date: Nov 2013
Posts: 5487

Share
Post

Remi. she/her. game designer.

Quote Flag

09-05-2017, 02:27 PM #29

Geist is, it's in Development.

Dave Brookshaw

Dave Brookshaw

Member

Join Date: Nov 2013
Posts: 2081

Share
Post

Quote Flag

09-05-2017, 03:43 PM #30

LostLight
Member

Join Date: Nov 2013
Posts: 4531

Share
Post

*Originally posted by Omegaphallic

That would be a shame.

I do think Changeling, Hunter, and Giest will have them as I believe they were written before the current rift.

I think that Rose has already presented the upcoming Changeling settings, and none of them sounded like Tokyo. Also, Hunter would not have signature settings, for Monica said she chose a different approach for World Building. Thankfully, Changeling's Tokyo and Toronto were already posted in Open Development before the "Changeling Crises", and Arcane was kind enough to share their Paris setting.

Check my STV content, Or My Homebrew

"And all our knowledge is, Ourselves to know"- An Essay on Man

I now blog in here

Quote Flag

Previous 1 2 3 Next

Font Size

Write something...

Cancel Preview Post Reply

Copyright Onyx Path Publishing LLC and individual users. Exalted, the Chronicles of Darkness, and the World of Darkness copyright Paradox Interactive AB.
Powered by vBulletin® Version 6.2.4
Copyright © 2026 MH Sub I, LLC dba vBulletin. All rights reserved.
All times are GMT-7. This page was generated at 10:05 AM.