Certainly, though I'd argue there was enough of it to be going on with in the 50's too. But my own conclusion I jump to when I hear "50's Promethean" is that the speaker is also after the nuclear aspect, and shifting to an earlier decade loses that.

so, here is my Dark Era homebrew/wishlist, with each Era including crossover between two gamelines-

Second Punic War- Demon/Mummy (the legions of Rome and the armies of Carthage wage war over the future of Western Civilization)
Rise of Modern Medicine- Deviant/Werewolf (the Rabies panic mixed with the medical experiments of a new scientific understanding of medicine)
Meiji Restoration- Changeling/Mage (restoration of power to the Emperor and the Onmyodo's collapse)
Bar Kokhba Revolt- Promethean/Hunter (the fall of the revolt as a failed New Dawn and the desperate hope to fight an enemy you can't defeat)
Fall of Axum- Geist/Beast (the violence generated from Gudit's war against Axum, leading to the collapse of an almost eternal dynasty)

Post

Italian Renaissance- Vampire/Inferno (Italian politics and trade rivalry between city states and Europe's finale rise from a fallen and corrupted state)

After watching the first two parts of the Red Riding trilogy, I'm convinced that mid-70s Yorkshire would be a pretty good setting for dark, depressing and noir influenced chronicles. Promethean, reflecting the industrial decay and economic problems, and maybe the Chapeltown race riots; Geist and Hunter for the Yorkshire Ripper murders and other killings; Mage: Noir for the general atmosphere and corruption; probably some Hunter and Changeling angles as well.

Are alternate history scenarios valid?

Mechs: Because even the Chronicles of Darkness needs robot fights.
DarkFrame: Crossover setting that puts Chronicles of Darkness in the far future that is Warframe.
Monarch: The Endless You are an alien ruler, charged with maintaining a people who you shape to suit your needs.

So the latest Adam Ruins everything covered the satanic panic, for those of you who like that idea. It is a pretty good explanation of the social anxieties that led to the panic, but leaves out a few of the things that lit the fuse on it.

Wouldn't that start diving into Shards territory?

Not sure. Nostly i am just thinking a scenario where history diverges on a single point or event.

Like say, Spain remains Muslim instead of Catholic after the failed Reconquista or America revolutoion is successfully contained but for how long?

1960s-1970s Central Africa: Revolutions Rising: Mage/Mummy/Beast: The fall old colonies, the rebirth of national pride, and the terror of living in a new and unknown era.

So, Dark Eras, but then Mages/The God-Machine happened?

Malkydel: "And the Machine dictated; let there be adequate illumination."
Yossarian: "And lo, it was optimal."

Doesn't have to be, no time travel or reality revisions required. But sure.

Hmm. 800AD in Europe. A period of two competing Roman Empires, with Charlemagne's new Holy Roman Empire and the surviving Byzantine Empire, as well as Anglo-Saxon England, Vikings, Magyars, Muslim Iberia, and so forth. I have no idea which game line it would work best with though.

Pick one distinct part of Europe during that time and it might be easier to match it to a gameline.

Writer for Bloodlines: The Ageless and Fire & Revolution: Carthians on STV
Some other stuff I've done: Ordo Dracul Mysteries: Mystery of Smoke, Revised Mystery of Živa Mage The Awakening: Spell Quick Reference (single page and landscape for computer screens)

I'm pondering the possibility of an entire book about that year, each region it's own chapter. The viking raids on Ireland and other areas as a Werewolf setting, the courts of Constantinople for Vampire, Spain for Mage, the Holy Roman Empire and Charlemagne's paladins for Hunter and Anglo-Saxon England and Wales for Changeling. And maybe the entire thing as a Demon exercise in manipulating history and empires from behind the scenes.

Under the Witch-King strikes me as the ultimate crossover era. Heck three gamelines explicitly have ties to those events and another would have been significantly impacted by it. Throw in others that have strong ties to the region and...

Thoughts ripple out, birthing others
